

New Books 2018 – Tourism Studies

HIGHLIGHTS

Femininities in the Field

Tourism and Transdisciplinary Research

Edited by Brooke A. Porter and Heike A. Schänzel

This is a terrific book and it belongs in the library of any social scientist, journalist – or indeed, anyone – who plans to conduct tourism research that utilizes techniques of face-to-face interviewing, participant observation, and ethnography. It is a timely and exciting invitation to researchers in many disciplines to take seriously the role and relevance of gender in the research process.

MARC L. MILLER, UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON, USA

The aim of this book is to reflect on the effect of femininities in the field and the encountered biases specific to women researchers. The global case studies cover access, attire/conduct, sexual harassment, personal safety, and accompanied research/well-being. The volume is an essential guide for supervisors, students and researchers.

Sport Tourism Development

3rd edition

James Higham and Tom Hinch

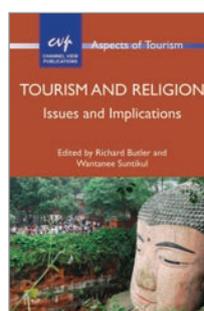

This comprehensive text, ideal for academics and students, sees Higham and Hinch write an engaging critical appraisal of the key development characteristics of sport tourism. This updated edition retains the excellent variety of examples from across the globe. Drawing on the latest research and empirical evidence, this work is a timely reappraisal of this dynamic industry sector.

CLAIRE HUMPHREYS, UNIVERSITY OF WESTMINSTER, UK

This book explores sport-related tourism and presents multidisciplinary perspectives of sport tourism, as structured by the geographical concepts of space, place and environment. It offers a comprehensive update of the discussions presented in the two previous editions and aims to advance theoretical thinking on sport tourism development.

Tourism and Religion

Issues and Implications

Edited by Richard Butler and Wantanee Suntikul

There is a serious lack of understanding of the interconnectedness, operational and management issues of religious tourism. This book provides outstanding clarity on the conceptual aspects of religious tourism while debating the nexus and complications of politics, nationalism, emotion, obligation, belief and management challenges.

This comprehensive volume will be a must-read for tourism and hospitality researchers.

MAHARAJ VIJAY REDDY, UNIVERSITY OF WEST LONDON, UK

This book examines both specific issues and more general problems stemming from the interaction of religion, travel and tourism with hospitality and culture, as well as the implications for site management and interpretation. It explores pilgrimage along with issues and conflicts arising from the collision of religion, politics and tourism.

Qualitative Methods in Tourism Research

Theory and Practice

Edited by Wendy Hillman and Kylie Radel

Hillman and Radel present a diverse, coherent and articulate array of contributions on qualitative research. The various contributors provide insights into why the application of thorough qualitative approaches is advancing within tourism. The insightful case studies provide clarity for complex methodological terminologies and a bridge between theory and practice.

BRIAN KING, HONG KONG POLYTECHNIC UNIVERSITY, HONG KONG

This volume seeks to expose and illustrate new approaches and thinking in qualitative methods that are being developed and implemented in tourism research. The chapters present an opportunity for social researchers from a range of disciplines to examine how to adapt the wide variety of qualitative approaches to their particular research needs.

Tourism Ethics

2nd edition

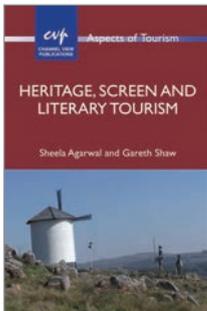

David A. Fennell

For over a decade, Fennell's Tourism Ethics has been the foundational text for students and seasoned scholars of tourism alike seeking a point of entry into this complex subject matter. Conscientiously and brilliantly updated, this second edition is impressive in its scope and clarity. It will find a welcome place on textbook lists and reference shelves worldwide.

KELLEE CATON, THOMPSON RIVERS UNIVERSITY, CANADA

This book remains the most in-depth large-scale introductory text on ethics as applied to tourism. This new edition has been reworked and updated to take into account important works published since the first edition, including new references on ethics and tourism ethics, and to engage more with 20th century theorists in philosophy.

Heritage, Screen and Literary Tourism

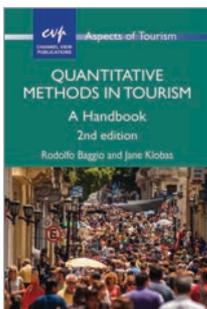

Sheela Agarwal and Gareth Shaw

This text is a fascinating and innovative exploration of heritage, screen and literary tourism. It offers an entirely new and contemporary perspective, placing tourist interactions and experiences at its heart. An excellent and timely text.

ADELE LADKIN, BOURNEMOUTH UNIVERSITY, UK

This book examines the main issues and concepts relating to heritage, screen and literary tourism (HSLT) and analyses the demand and supply of HSLT within the frameworks provided by service-dominant logic and value creation to enable a critical perspective on how HSLT tourist experiences are created, produced and shaped.

Quantitative Methods in Tourism

A Handbook

2nd edition

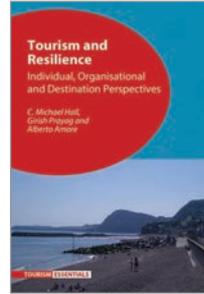

Rodolfo Baggio and Jane Klobas

An excellent practical guide for researchers, analysts, industry consultants and students. This usable reference book deserves a prominent place on every tourism scholar's bookshelf.

LARRY DWYER, UNIVERSITY OF LJUBLJANA, SLOVENIA

In this revised second edition, the authors offer a presentation of quantitative research methods for tourism researchers. This accessible and rigorous guide covers common issues in statistical analysis of data and the most widely-used techniques as well as several newer and less common approaches to data analysis.

Tourism and Resilience

Individual, Organisational and Destination Perspectives

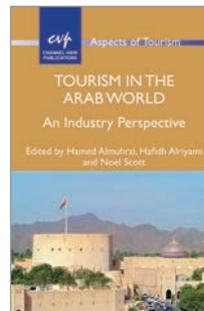

C. Michael Hall, Girish Prayag and Alberto Amore

This book carries tourism scholarship into a refreshing new future that was long overdue and that will undoubtedly set a new and innovative standard for understanding tourism globally. Hall, Prayag and Amore have done a marvellous job drawing together complex concepts in a digestible and enjoyable text.

JACKIE DAWSON, UNIVERSITY OF OTTAWA, CANADA

This is the first authored overview of resilience in tourism and its relationship to the broader resilience literature. The book examines resilience at individual, organisation and destination levels, and with respect to the wider tourism system. It is designed to be an upper-level undergraduate and postgraduate primer on resilience in tourism.

Tourism in the Arab World

An Industry Perspective

Edited by Hamed Almuhrzi, Hafidh Alriyami and Noel Scott

This book is the first to explore Arabic tourism from a business viewpoint and focuses on business planning, management and marketing destinations in the Arab World. It examines similarities and differences in the emergence and development of the tourism industry in countries across the Arab world as well as its inbound and outbound travel flows.

Commercial Nationalism and Tourism

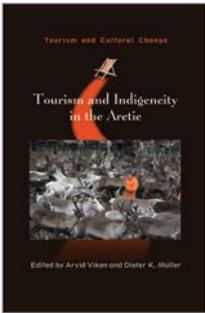

Selling the National Story

Edited by Leanne White

This book combines academic analysis and critical exploration to examine national narratives in the context of tourism and events. It explores how particular narratives are woven to tell (and sell) a national story and closely examines how national texts create key archival imagery that can promote tourism and events and shape national identity.

Tourism and Indigeneity in the Arctic

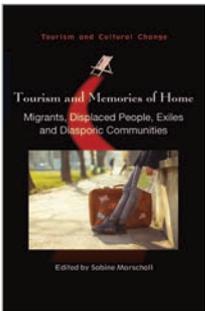

Edited by Arvid Viken and Dieter K. Müller

This refreshing book offers a highly valuable contribution to the existing literature on indigenous tourism with specific focus on the Circumpolar North. It is a timely and important collection and a must-read for anyone interested in understanding the relationships and encounters between tourism and indigenous people.

JARKKO SAARINEN, UNIVERSITY OF OULU, FINLAND

This is the first book to exclusively address tourism and indigenous peoples in the circumpolar North. It examines how tourism in indigenous communities is influenced by academic and political discourses and how communities are influenced by tourism. The volume seeks to challenge stereotypical understandings of indigenosity and indigeneity.

Tourism and Memories of Home

Migrants, Displaced People, Exiles and Diasporic Communities

Edited by Sabine Marschall

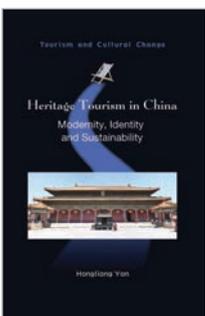

Rich in evocative case studies from around the globe, Marschall's collection charts a course through diverse fields of study, and breaks new ground in updating and extending conceptualisations of the ever disparate but always heartfelt process of journeying home. In a world increasingly defined by mobility, the counterpoints of home and memory are important conceptual innovations featured in this work.

LORETTA BALDASSAR, THE UNIVERSITY OF WESTERN AUSTRALIA, AUSTRALIA

This book investigates 'home' and 'homeland' as destinations of touristic journeys and adds to recent scholarly interest in the intersection between tourism and migration. It covers the temporary visits and journeys in search of home and homelands by migrants, displaced people, exiles and diasporic communities.

Heritage Tourism in China

Modernity, Identity and Sustainability

Hongliang Yan

This book offers new approaches and insights into the relationships between heritage tourism and notions of modernity, identity building and sustainable development in China. It demonstrates that the role of the state, politics, institutional arrangements and tradition have a considerable impact on perceptions of these notions.

Tourism, Public Transport and Sustainable Mobility

C. Michael Hall, Diem-Trinh Le-Klähn and Yael Ram

This book offers a comprehensive global examination of the relationship between public transport and tourism. It offers a unique analysis of the transport experience and shows how the public transport system, the tourism industry and the environment all benefit when public transport is widely used by tourists.
